NOGA NAMED CLUB ADVISOR OF YEAR;
STEPPIN' N STYLE IS TOP CLUB AT GTCC

JAMESTOWN – Jennifer Noga of Greensboro, advisor of Guilford Technical Community College's Phi Theta Kappa honor society for 3½ years, has been named the college's "club advisor of the year."

The selection was made by GTCC's Student Government Association, which also named the performing group Steppin' N Style as the No. 1 club on campus.

Noga and the Steppin' group received plaques, and were honored at a reception.

Steppin' N Style performs at a variety of college events, such as Founders' Day, the Valentine's Day Show, halftime at basketball games and International Week. The group has 11 members.

Noga, who is technical services librarian at the Learning Resource Center, has worked at GTCC for seven years. She has an undergraduate degree in journalism from UNC-Chapel Hill, and a master's degree in library information studies from UNCG.

Noga said she was interested in becoming a club advisor in order to have more contact with students. "Since I've been involved I am constantly amazed by the dedication, enthusiasm and drive of the members of the honor society. They are truly and inspiration for me," Noga said.
